Windstorm cuts power and phone service

by Cheryll Ruley

Staff Writer

A strong, fall windstorm blew through Crawford County and most of Michigan on Tuesday, November 10, leaving thousands in the dark and many without telephone service.

Trees toppled onto power lines as winds gusted up to 80 m.p.h. Top O' Michigan Electric Company reported that their employees kept up with the storm until around 3 p.m. that day, when winds began to intensify. Crews could not put the lines up as fast as the storm was knocking them down.

The electric supplier used all available crews, including contracted tree-clearing and line construction teams to restore power to its estimated 12,000 affected northern Michigan customers.

By 9 a.m., Friday, November 13, power had been restored to most areas, though Top O' Michigan officials said there may be some isolated cases of seasonal homes still without power because the owners were not here to report the outage.

In Grayling, some GTE customers lost telephone service when a portion of the roof was torn away at the substation located on James Street, allowing rain water to affect equipment. Repairs were made to the roof and the affected equipment shortly after the winds died down.

Last week's windstorm occurred on the 23rd anniversary of the loss of the freighter made famous by the song, The Wreck of the Edmund Fitzgerald.

Weather forecasters remarked that the storm had all the characteristics of the one long ago that sank the ill-fated ship on Lake Superior, including barometric readings as low as 27.91, taking the lives of 29 men.

Safe stolen from The Red Barn

by Cheryll Ruley

Staff Writer

A floor-mounted safe containing an undetermined amount of cash was discovered stolen from The Red Barn on Monday, November 9.

According to Crawford County Sheriff David Lovely, deputies responded to the report of a break-in received from Red Barn owner Paul Schroeder at 9 a.m., shortly after he arrived at the establishment on M-72 West.

Deputy Randy Herman reported that the break-in is believed to have occurred in the late night hours of Sunday, November 8 or the early morning hours of Monday, November 9.

Due to the nature of the crime scene, Herman said the break-in and removal of the safe most likely involved more than one person and took place over a long period of time.

Sheriff Lovely asks that anyone having any information regarding the break-in call the Crawford County Sheriff's Office at (517) 348-4616, ext. 332 as soon as possible. Tips may be made anonymously.

Christmas Walk and concert help open holiday season

by Cheryll Ruley
Staff Writer

As Crawford County receives its first snowfall of the season, Grayling uptown merchants are preparing to bring in the holiday shopping season with their annual Christmas Walk on Sunday, November 22.

"With loving hearts... Back Home to the Heart of Christmas" is the theme this year's walk to be held 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. that day.

Participating merchants are working to provide a joyful and refreshing atmosphere, including music of the season and featuring the talents of special guest artists, a most important part of the event.

The festivities continue that night, when Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church presents an evening of music.

Singin' 'n Ringin' will begin at 7 p.m., promising to offer something for everyone.

A variety of secular and religious music, from Gershwin to Vivaldi will be performed by the Michelson Chancel Choir, Michelson Bell Choir, Michelson Singers, and three children's choirs.

Donations for the performance can be made at the door and will go toward the purchase of new choir robes and bell choir table skirts.

HUNTERS' HARVEST — The Buck Pole at Skip's Sport Shop on M-72 West was almost filled by 3:30 p.m. on opening day of firearm deer season on Sunday, November 15. The first buck to the pole was bagged by Glenn Gabriel of Westland. Second buck to the pole was brought in by Grayling resident Cindy Reetz.

Newly elected county board receives training

by Caleb Casey
Staff Writer

The six recently elected county commissioners met with other elected county officials, as well as representatives of the court system, for an informative training session on Wednesday, November 11, at the Grayling Holiday Inn.

Circuit Court Chief Judge Alton T. Davis started the meeting with a brief introduction, in which he outlined the purpose of the session, which was to allow the newly-elected commissioners an opportunity to discuss the basic workings of county government with the other elected officials of Crawford County.

Judge Davis then turned the proceedings over to guest speaker Dr. Lynn Harvey, a professor at Michigan State University and specialist in local government.

Dr. Harvey started by saying that having a high turnover is not unusual in county government. Crawford County will have five new commissioners on the first of January.

Harvey's discussion touched on a number of topics, including basic commissioner duties and responsibilities, finance, the role of committees, board rules of order, the Freedom of Information and Open Meetings acts, and important skills for the job.

"Effective communication is the number one issue that comes up every time," said Harvey.

"There's lots of potential in this county," he said. "You've got to have strong government and the

Firearm deer season opens with few problems sheriff says

by Cheryll Ruley

Staff Writer

Firearm Deer Season officially began at dawn on Sunday, November 15, and for the most part, opening weekend was uneventful for law enforcement in Crawford County.

According to Crawford County Sheriff David Lovely, most calls received by his department concerned complaints of trespassing.

"Usually what happens is property owners find individuals hunting on their land and approach them to let them know they are trespassing," said Sheriff Lovely. "If they don't leave or they come back, that's when we get calls."

The Sheriff's log shows complaints of trespassing over the past weekend came from Grayling Township, Maple Forest Township, and Beaver Creek Township.

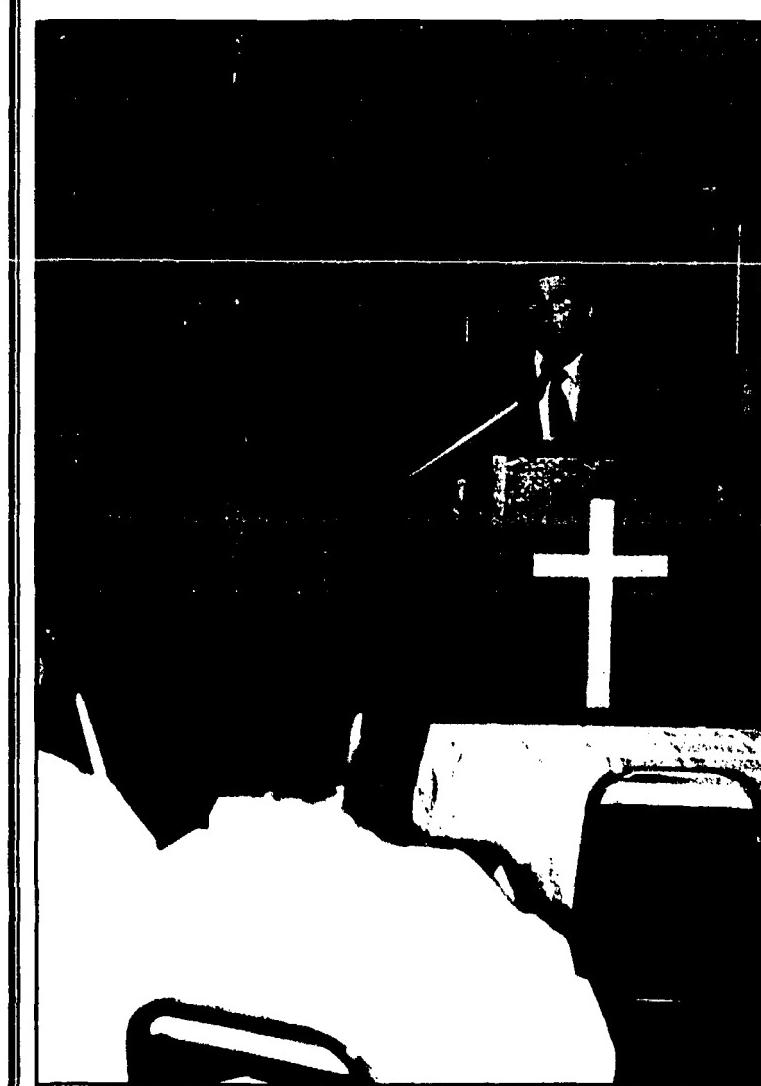

There was one report of "shining" of deer in the county (hunters using bright lights to entrance and still the deer after dusk) and a complaint from a resident on River Park Drive near Wilcox Bridge Road that a deer impaled with an arrow was discovered on his property on Saturday afternoon.

The sheriff also confirmed incidents of drunk driving during the weekend.

No reports of hunting related injuries were received.

Veterans remembered in ceremony

MILITARY HONOR — Bob Hughes, a 50-year member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, spoke at a Veterans Day ceremony on November 11 at the American Legion Hall, about the sacrifices made by our veterans in all wars fought this century. A special candlelight ceremony for Vietnam POW's and those still missing was also held. Taps was played by high school students Marianne Vollmer and Brooke Ginther and a 21-gun salute was made by members of the National Guard. Also in attendance were members of the American Legion, their spouses, and community leaders, including Rep. Allen Lowe. A luncheon of soup and sandwiches was served after the conclusion of the ceremony.

DRESS REHEARSAL — The cast and crew of the Grayling High School Players' production of the musical, Anything Goes, hold dress rehearsals in preparation for opening night, November 19. The play runs from November 19-21 at the Stripe Auditorium.

Submitted by Nancy Lemmen

Get ready to climb aboard the S.S. American on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings as the Grayling High School Players take their audiences on a musical cruise called Anything Goes.

The musical comedy, under the direction of Andrea Binert, will be performed in the Joseph Stripe Auditorium at 7 p.m. on three evenings, November 19-21. Tickets, available at the door, are $5 for adults and $4 for senior citizens and students.

Anything Goes is the story of two young people—Hope Harcourt (played by Heidi Niederer) and Billy Crocker (Jason Bordeaux)—who meet on a summer night in New York City, then separate without learning each other's names.

Three months later, they meet again—just as Hope is about to sail off on the S.S. American bound for England. Seeing Hope, Billy boards the ship with his friend Reno Sweeney, a famed evangelist (Heather Ross).

Also on board are Public Enemy 13, Moonface Martin (Jared Armstrong), and Hope's stuffy fiancé, Sir Evelyn Oakleigh (Joe Pilon), gun moll Bonnie (Gina Rosi) and lots of other colorful characters.

The rest of the cast includes Mike Moon, Tiffany Ruark, Travis LaMotte, Tony Reimer, Ben Sartin, Colby Davis, Jenny French, Amanda Fortino, Rachel Ramaswamy, Erin Scott, Kira Maples, Laura Gassman, Jessica Abfalter, Amanda Boone-Bordeaux, Jenna Bugyi, Emily Wakeley, Kim Mallory and Alisha Carlisle.

The tap dancing chorus includes Michelle Gildner, Michelle Stephenson, Jon Bancroft, Shane Stephenson and Kristen Gaertner.

With music and lyrics by Cole

Porter, the musical features favorite tunes, including You're the Top, It's Delovely, I Get a Kick Out of You and, of course, Anything Goes.

Assisting Mrs. Binert with directorial duties are Karen Ross, vocal music coach; David Gott, pit band conductor; Dennis Ormsbee, pit band coach; and Mark Binert, technical/art director.

Bonnie French and Marti Gosling headed the costume and properties teams; Debra Stevens was responsible for make-up; Erica Aumock served as pianist; and Melanie Ross acted as choreographer.

Set construction was done by Larry Wilson, Jim Carmean, Robert Binert and Dave Ross.

Damien Barrett designed the programs and Ilesa Bordeaux handled patrons.

Students working on the technical end of the production included Allison Pettyjohn and Michelle Stepp, co-student directors;

Michelle Stepp, lighting; Lindsay Porter, student technical director; Heather Hatfield, Sonya Saladine and Monica Kustra, stage crew and set construction; and building trades students Allen Dickie, Eric Deline, Ray Pyle, Casey Heisel, Brad Daneluk, Andrew Smith, Luke Cross, Joe Strelchuk and Joe McGraw, set construction.

So—What happens by the end of the S.S. American's cruise to England? Does Billy win Hope's heart? Does Reno capture the affections of Sir Evelyn? Is love in the cards for other passengers? Join the GHS Players this Thursday-Saturday—when anything will go—and find out.

Wakeley also explained how money is borrowed in the form of bonds to pay off delinquent taxes in the delinquent tax revolving fund, money which is paid back monthly while the taxes are being collected.

"Tax collecting can be a lengthy process," said Wakeley. He said that the collection "usually makes a profit," and that according to the theory of the 'revolving' fund the money builds up enough over time to allow the county to pay off the delinquent taxes all at once without borrowing.

"We have used the money to supplement the general fund," said Wakeley. "The goal is to not transfer any of it to the general fund, but live within the budget."

Wakeley finished by commenting on the county controller, which would be the "chief accounting officer of the county," according to statute.

"It's a fundamental change that needs to be made," said Wakeley. "It will allow us to do better jobs in what we're supposed to be doing."

WELCOME ABOARD - The Crawford County Board of Commissioners appointed Paul Compo the new County Controller.

by Cheryl Ruley
Staff Writer

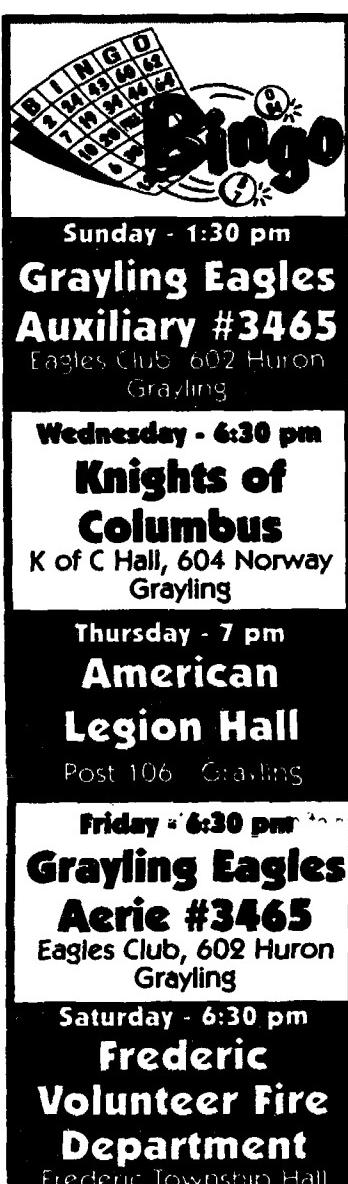

Coming to Crawford County from Flushing, newly appointed County Controller Paul Compo became familiar with the County Building and employees over the course of a few days last week, then worked his first full day in his new position on Monday, November 16.

Compo holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Michigan and Master of Arts degree from Central Michigan University, both in Business.

"I'm excited to be here and eager to learn the nuts and bolts of the county," said Compo last week.

Compo now holds the responsibility of chief financial officer for Crawford County.

ISSUES AND OPINIONS

ALMANACK

by Richard Milliman

Parties may edge toward moderation

THE INTRIGUING results of the 1998 election, both in Michigan and Washington, are bound to cause wholesale soul searching.

The losers should seek out a nice, comfortable couch and submit to deep analysis.

In Michigan, that means the Democrats must try to figure out who should be in charge, and how they should proceed.

Strangely enough, in Washington it means Republicans must probe for answers to the same questions.

MICHIGAN DEMOCRATS face a tough job. How do they get back on track, and who will lead the way?

The new champion certainly is not the titular leader of the state party. Geoffrey Fieger lost 82 of 83 counties as the Democratic candidate for governor. Since the election, he has managed to insult and demean the few party leaders he missed in his rough and tumble underdog primary fight.

Is it organized labor? Probably not, although labor's role must be a major one. The Engler-Wolpe campaign in 1994 and the primary this year underline a growing Democratic problem: Increasingly union members don't vote as union leaders direct.

The Democratic congressional delegation is strong and experienced, but usually congressional influence in state politics is minimal.

* * *

FORMER GOV. James Blanchard could be a major player, even though he lost his last race for governor.

VIEWPOINT

by U.S. Senator Spencer Abraham (R-Michigan)

Michigan saw benefits from this Congress

This last session of Congress provided important benefits for Michigan.

In addition to finally balancing the budget, Congress enacted measures to help keep our economy strong, our environment clean, and our families safe.

Until recently, experts predicted budget deficits in the hundreds of billions of dollars as far as the eye could see. This year Congress finally stopped mortgaging our children's future and began taking responsibility for the money it spends, even reporting a $70 billion surplus for fiscal year 1998.

The next step is to use the current surplus to put Social Security on a firm footing for the next century and then reduce the tax burden on Michigan families.

Congress also passed legislation to prepare our kids for good jobs and Michigan employers for global competition. High technology firms are particularly important in this respect. They make up a large part of our economy (Ann Arbor hosts one of the nation's largest concentrations of high-tech companies) and many individuals and businesses depend on computer software and other high-tech assets to stay competitive.

The American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act, which I authored, will provide scholarships and job training to Michiganders studying in high-tech fields like electronics, math, engineering and computers. It will help Michiganders get the skills they need to succeed, and help Michigan companies find the skilled workers they need to stay on top.

In addition, the Government Paperwork Elimination Act will finally force the federal government to allow individuals and companies to fill out paperwork using electronic forms instead of wasting countless hours filling them out on typewriters or by hand. This will save time and money for business and in government, as well as spurring the growth of time-saving technologies.

The legislation also provides increased security for people transferring information over the internet, helping increase trust in electronic commerce.

Congress also passed legislation to build parents' trust in the internet by assuring that kids using school computers will not end up looking at pornography as they surf the web.

To keep trade and tourist dollars flowing, Congress managed to fend off implementation of a senseless immigration regulation, known as Section 110, requiring officials to check millions of Canadians' papers at the border — turning the Ambassador Bridge and every other Michigan point of entry into a vast parking lot.

Trade also requires good roads. And, with Congress' recent transportation legislation, Michigan now ranks 7th for the greatest increase in federal funds without sending a nickel more to Washington.

Under the old funding law, Michigan received only $512 million annually. Now Michigan will receive about $825 million annually, a 62 percent increase.

Improved roads will help Michigan trade with other states and countries. But a number of urban and rural areas are suffering economically because businesses cannot afford to clean up contaminated sites and put them to good use.

Until this Congress acted, companies cleaning up "brownfield" sites had to capitalize costs over many years. Now new owners will be able to deduct these costs immediately, encouraging greater economic growth and more environmental clean-up.

Congress also helped Michigan's environment through the National Parks Restoration Act. This legislation addresses the $5 billion park construction backlog, implements a broad array of reforms and increases park funding, benefiting every national park in Michigan.

Congress also allocated $4.5 million to expand the Huron and Manistee National Forests.

As important as protecting our environment, two measures passed this Congress will help protect our families.

The Child Passenger Safety Protection Act authorizes $7.5 million to promote important safety information on the use of children's car seats. And Congress reinstated a policy (previously revoked by President Clinton) requiring federal agencies to review proposed policies for their impact on families. Once again federal regulators will have to stop and think about how their actions affect American families.

There is a great deal of work to be done. But Michiganders made real progress this session in moving Washington to be more friendly toward our families, our environment and our economy.

Judge corrects election error

To the editor,

Your announcement of my re-election indicated that it was for a partial term. That is incorrect. And my mother reads your paper.

I was re-elected to a full term, which ends December 31, 2005.

Had you said I was re-elected for an impartial term, I could go along with that.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wife was victim, not plaintiff in local harassment case

To the editor,

Just a note in response to last week's letter from a "concerned" citizen about the plea bargain letter from October 29.

He referred to my wife as the plaintiff. I stand to correct him with the fact that she was the victim — the victim has no choice when it comes to trial vs. plea bargain.

The State of Michigan is the plaintiff, therefore the prosecutor makes the choice between accepting a plea bargain and going to trial. She was against the plea bargain and supported taking this case to trial.

She felt confident that a conviction would have resulted, based on the events which took place, not based on sympathy.

As the editor noted, the name of the "subject" was removed at the discretion of the editor not by the writer.

After terrorizing my family for a year, I would like to have seen his name in that letter — just for the simple fact of letting people know to beware of this person.

My wife did not ask anyone to go out of their way to catch him violating probation; she did not ask anyone to follow him around to make sure he's where he is supposed to be. All she was asking was for the community to be aware of the situation.

Being that the identity of the "subject" was not revealed should not have closed the door for anyone who was truly concerned. That information is a matter of public record, and can be obtained through the courthouse.

The same information will also be printed in the paper when October's Circuit Court Sentencings are released.

We have received calls from some people who were concerned. Even though his name was not published does not mean it is impossible to obtain.

One final note — he seems to think that we are at peace now. Well, he just has no idea what my family has been through nor what we are going through. Most of all, he does not have to reassure the children that everything will be O.K. now.

Voters have already spoken on school bond issue

To the editor,

Well, here it is again. Mr. Kent Reynolds is asking for more money for the schools.

It was just a short time ago that the State distributed more money to the schools and I guess they want the voters to believe that Grayling was excluded.

Well, this time the play is to knock a few dollars off, call it a bond issue instead of a millage, form a committee and call it Kids Count, and wait for the seasonal residents to leave.

It was just six short months ago that the voters said, "no." I wonder what part of "no" doesn't Mr. Kent Reynolds understand.

This is not fair to the voters and taxpayers after they have already, in the same year, spoken at the polls.

It is the same story we heard in June about the bond market being low and what a great environment to borrow money. Millages and bonds mean the same thing — more taxes.

If this election fails, we can always keep putting it on the ballot till we cram it down the voters' throats.

Anyone can possess a title, but doing a job well paid for is another story.

It is time Grayling stops paying high salaries and benefits for part time employees and put this money to good use, than support someone's high living and to count on high taxes and millages.

I urge the voters to say "NO" on this bond issue. Send them a message this time and maybe, just maybe, it won't fall on deaf ears.

These schools will never be closed for failure of bonds and millages.

Red Cross offers courses

While the days grow shorter, the wind howls louder, the snow is quickly closing in. As the holiday season rapidly approaches, remember your loved ones with a gift that might just save their life. POSSIBLY YOUR OWN...

The American Red Cross Northern Lower Michigan Chapter would like to remind you that it has a variety of courses offered throughout the year. Courses are designed to fit any age group, at any time of their life, and contain information that is vital, timely and lifesaving. Also available are first aid kits or gift certificates to meet the needs of anyone on your holiday shopping list.

Instead of the same old tired gift box, basket of fruit and nuts or picture that doesn't fit anyone's decor, why not give your family, friends or co-workers a gift that shows how you care about them?

Courses offered:

Community First Aid & Safety - Perfect for the family expecting a new addition, family with a member with medical condition or anyone interested in helping themselves or others.

Premarital Health Counseling - This course is a requirement in the State of Michigan for those wishing to obtain a marriage license. What a convenient gift for the couple getting married in the upcoming year. Available in Gaylord and Alpena only.

Healthy Pregnancy Healthy Baby - This course is a seven week long childbirth education series that is vital, informative and extremely important for every expectant parent. Available in Alpena only.

Babysitter's Training - Top of the list for 11 - 15 year olds wishing to become a babysitter or wanting to improve their skills. Safety, emergency measures and professionalism are integral parts of the course.

CPR for the Professional Rescuer - This program is for the first responder, nursing student, lifeguard or anyone wishing to have advanced training.

Instructor courses are available for a variety of needs - What a better way to give back to your community than to become a volunteer instructor and share your gift of time and expertise.

First aid kits are available for a variety of needs - Whether it's for the home, boat, car or workplace. The kits are custom made to fit the particular needs of everyone from the sports enthusiast to the weekend warrior. Kits for babysitters are a hot item for teens and are sure to please even the pickiest teenagers on your list. Pet first aid manuals and kits will delight the animal lover.

If you can't decide, let a gift certificate (available for any amount, for any item), speak of your caring.

Offices are conveniently located at: 810 S. Otsego, Gaylord (517)-732-7161

109 N. Second Ave., Alpena (517)-356-0677

2350 Mitchell Park, Petoskey (616)-348-7666

2370 Business 1-75, Grayling (517)-348-9745

"I was here for a brake job, and I saw the entry box... so I entered. You never think you're going to win," said Tulgetske, then added, "I can always use a new T.V."

Send a message for free, to armed service members

If you have a friend or loved one in any branch of the military, you can send them a message almost anywhere in the world for the price of a local phone call.

Often referred to as one of the best-kept secrets in the military, the Military Affiliate Radio System (MARS) is a program formalized in 1952, sponsored by the Department of Defense and supported by the Department of the Army and other military services.

In addition to handling message traffic between the civilian community and the military, MARS has other missions, one of which is to provide auxiliary communications for military, federal, civil and/or disaster support officials during periods of emergency.

MARS is composed of trained civilian radio operators licensed by the Federal Communications Commission. Approximately 100 men and women here in Michigan and more than 5,000 nationwide volunteer to interface with the military and make the program a success.

Using the computers and high frequency radios, thousands of messages to and from bases in the U.S., as well as faraway places like Saudi Arabia, Korea, Germany and Bosnia, are delivered daily.

To send a free MARSGRAM, call your local MARS contact, Roy Burmeister in Saginaw at 517-777-7112 any day. Have your message (50 words or less) and the full military mailing address ready when you call.

Messages of a non-commercial nature may be sent to personnel of all services including active, Reserve and National Guard.

retired military personnel of all services, patients in veterans' hospitals and U.S. government and military civilian employees. Messages may also be sent to personnel aboard certain ships.

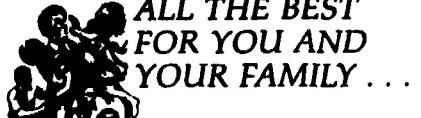

Replies to your message will be delivered to you by telephone. Local contacts in other areas within Michigan or any other state can also be made available. All messages are free and the number of times one may utilize the program is unlimited. What better way to stay in touch.

The Bible Speaks

Perilous times

God prophesied of coming perilous times when immoral religious people would despise the good and love the wicked. (2 Timothy 3:1-7) "This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. (2) For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy. (3) Without natural affection, trucebreakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good. (4) Traitors, heady highminded lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God; (5) Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away. (6) For of this sort are they which creep into houses, and lead captive silly women laden with sins, led away with divers lust. (7) Ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth."

Historically, wise men have understood the truth that morality preserves civilization. "It is the eternal struggle between these two principles - right and wrong - throughout the world. They are the two principles that have stood face to face from the beginning of time..." - Abraham Lincoln "To educate a man in mind and not in morals is to educate a menace to society." -

Theodore Roosevelt "Laws do not persuade just because they threaten." - Seneca "Since custom is the principal magistrate of man's life, let men by all means endeavor to obtain good customs." - Frank Bacon "The government, which was designed for the people, has got into the hands of the bosses and their employers, the special interests. An invisible empire has been set up above the forms of democracy." - President Woodrow Wilson "Everyone wants to live at the expense of the state. They forget that the state wants to live at the expense of everyone." - Frederic Bastiat (Above quotes from <http://www.Federalist.com>.)

Two thousand years ago a perfect one stood up for truth in a world which hated and rejected Him. He was truly personified, and never spoke a lie! The liberal religious leaders of His nation paid 30 pieces of silver to one of His disciples to betray Him. He was tried before His nation's highest religious body and declared to be a blasphemer worthy of death. The Roman gentile rulers carried out his civil trial and fulfilled his sentence of death. In a choice for freedom between this perfect person and criminal guilty of insurrection, robbery, and murderer. (Mark 15:7-

John 18:40), the people chose to free the criminal, and crucify, God in human flesh. The religious leaders called for the death of Christ and the release of Barabbas. (Mark 15:11) "But the chief priests moved the people, that he should rather release Barabbas unto them." (Mark 15:15) "And so Pilate, willing to content the people, released Barabbas unto them, and delivered Jesus when he had scourged him, to be crucified."

Morality has always been a life and death issue on earth. It will bring eternal blessing or damnation from the hand of a Holy God. Satan is preparing this world system for the rule of antichrist. Columns like this one will soon be forced to become politically correct or go out of print. Which side will you be found defending, the evil side with Barabbas, or the good side with Jesus Christ?

Good kids rewarded with hay ride

REWARDING HAY RIDE - Fifth grade students at Frederic Elementary School went for a hay ride on October 28 as a reward for good behavior.

by Joshua Mastri,
Randi Richardson,

Katie Bayham
Student Writers

On October 28, the Frederic Elementary School went on a hay ride.

Danny Latusek's father, Tony, provided the wagon, hay and tractor.

Before the hay ride, the Frederic Fire Department provided donuts and apple cider.

The hay ride and treats were for those of us that did not receive a "red slip" during the month of October. It was part of the Social Skills program at Frederic Elementary School.

As a safety precaution, Deputy Sheriff Shawn Kraycs followed the wagon in his patrol car.

Students said that they thought the ride was great.

The Missing Piece...

Life may appear to be a jigsaw puzzle. Just when we think we have it all together, to our dismay we find that one piece is missing.

We rush from place to place many of us with anxiety, fear, and impatience as our companions. We worry and we wonder how we will fit all of our responsibilities into hectic schedules.

Have you ever considered that God may be that missing piece in the puzzle that is your life? He is there, waiting to help you, always vigilant. We are told in the Bible that "not one of them (sparrows) will fall to the ground without your Father's will." (Matthew 10:29). We also read in Matthew 10:30, "But even the hairs of your head are numbered...you are of more value than many sparrows."

Let God help keep your life peaceful and in an orderly fashion. Worship this week and give Him a chance. All you have to do is ask and believe.

LSSU's receives fire service accreditation

Lake Superior State University's bachelor of science degree program in fire science was recently approved by the International Fire Service Accreditation Congress as meeting all requirements set by the organization for the fire service training and education.

According to Dr. Terry Heyns of the School of Criminal Justice, Fire Science and Education, IFSAC includes members who represent fire service training and education organizations from around the world.

"This accreditation is important to our graduates because of an ever-competitive job market," Heyns said. "Over the last 30 years, the demands on the fire service have increased and, as a result, there is much higher emphasis placed on education."

Heyns said a degree which is accredited tells employers that a graduate of the program has completed a curriculum which has been evaluated and which meets professional standards of instruction, keeps up with current research, and provides support to accomplish its mission and goals in granting a fire science-related degree.

LSSU has been working on the accreditation for three years, according to Heyns, who said the accrediting team not only reviewed the program but also other areas of the University, including library support and available resource materials, learning resource center facilities, the University budget, strategic plan, faculty background and professional activity, and community relationships.

A written report filed by the accrediting team said, "We were most impressed with the amount of involvement that the faculty has in planning, budgeting, and in various campus committees and professional development."

After interviewing students, the team said, "LSSU can be proud of the mature, articulate, informed fire science student body."

For more information on fire science at LSSU, contact Admissions, 1-888-800-LSSU.

The right time to file for medicare

"I'll soon be 65 years old, and I'm going to keep on working. When should I file for Medicare?" That's one of the most frequent questions we get.

The immediate answer is simple: When you're about three months from your 65th birthday and you're not already receiving Social Security benefits, you should contact us about enrolling in Medicare. If you're receiving benefits, we automatically send you a reminder about enrolling in Medicare. If you aren't receiving Social Security benefits and you are approaching age 65, you should call our toll-free number, (800) 772-1213, to make an appointment to talk with a Social Security representative. You can file your enrollment application by phone or in person at one of our offices.

Remember, there are two parts to Medicare. They are:

- Hospital insurance (also known as Part A Medicare) which is paid for by a portion of the Social Security tax workers like yourself pay on your earnings. Part A helps pay for inpatient hospital care, home health care, hospice care or care in a skilled nursing facility following a hospital stay.
- Medical insurance (Part B Medicare), is partly financed by monthly premiums which you'll pay if you choose to enroll in that part of Medicare. Part B helps pay for doctor's services and many medical services and supplies that are not covered by Part A.

Although you'll need to enroll in Part A when you reach age 65, you can delay enrolling in Part B if you're currently employed and covered under a group health plan, until your group coverage ends. You can then enroll during a special enrollment period and avoid the 10-percent premium surcharge for late enrollment in Part B Medicare.

For more information about Medicare, call our toll-free number, (800) 772-1213, and request the publication, "Medicare."

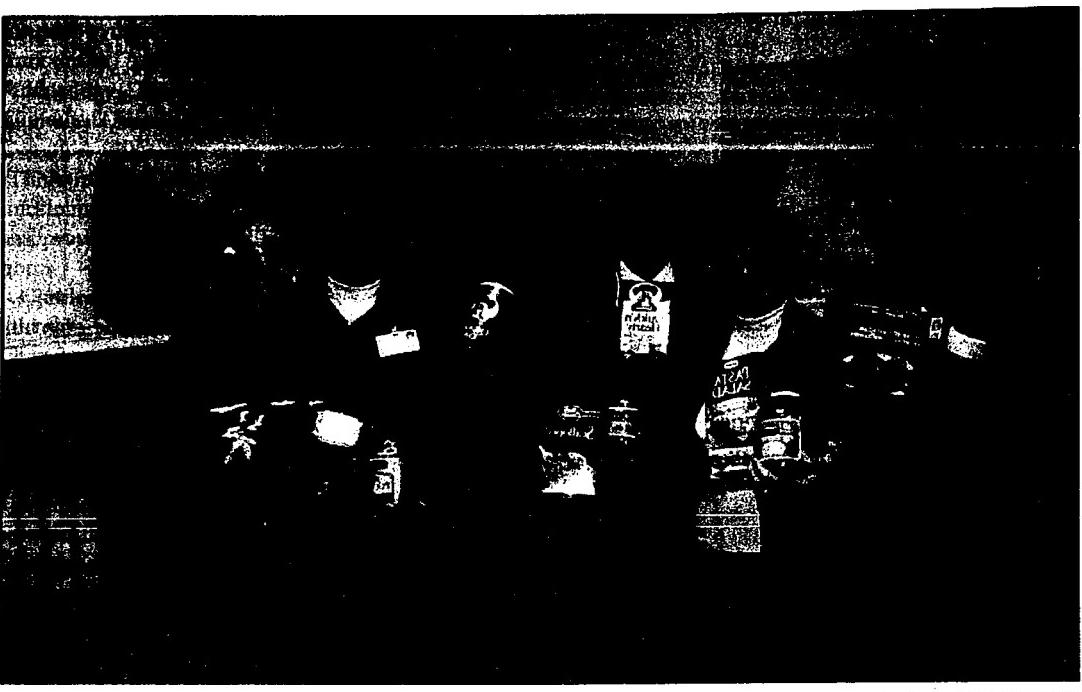

Over half-ton of food collected by Mercy

Inoculate your business against the year 2000 bug

When you walk into your office on January 2, 2000, will your computer, and its software, recognize the new millennium or will it think it is 1900?

Your computer's ability to comprehend the year 2000 can affect everything from your business's cash flow to taxes to interest calculations to customer service, as well as many other areas.

Although the degree to which the Year 2000 (Y2K) issue affects a business will vary greatly, you can be assured that if your systems rely on computers or electronically controlled devices, your business is at risk.

The Michigan Association of CPAs says there are steps you can take now to minimize those risks. Here are a few of them:

Take an inventory of your hardware and software.

Identify and list the various computer-based systems, components, and hardware that support your business. Include computer-controlled equipment such as automated machinery in your production line, telephone systems, security and safety systems, transport systems, and other equipment that may involve a computer chip.

Don't overlook other hardware and software that may use a date, including utility programs such as Microsoft Office, accounting packages and custom-written or adapted systems developed for your business.

If you use a service bureau for your data processing needs, make a list of all the services it provides. Then ask the service bureau in writing about if each service is year-2000 compliant. If a service bureau says it is ready for the year 2000, ask it to provide test results demonstrating the fact.

Assess your system's compliance.

You should also assess whether each of the items on your inventory list is Y2K compliant.

Start with those systems or components that are most critical to your business operations and those that are date sensitive. Systems that are date sensitive include ones that perform any kind of forecasting through time, such as calculating interest on a loan or projecting inventory levels.

One way to test your systems being compliant is to run it as if it were already the year 2000. For example, test 1/7/2000 and 1/10/2000 to ensure that the system operates correctly on the first Friday of the new century and the Monday after the first Friday.

Validate that the system operates correctly at the month end, 1/31/2000, and rolls over to 2/1/2000 properly. You'll also want to validate such things as interest and other time-based finance calculations, inventory processing, and expiration date processing.

However, before running such tests, make sure you evaluate the impact of resetting systems dates so you don't foul up current operations.

Another way to assess your system is to look at the computer code and follow the logic. If such is not possible because this is based on a purchased package, contact the vendor. In fact, it's wise to contact all suppliers for confirmation in writing that their product is Y2K compliant or for details of the steps required to achieve compliance.

Correct existing systems.

Once you have determined those systems that need to be modified, the next step is to determine how to repair them.

Basically, you can repair or upgrade the system, replace it or retire it. It's important to keep in mind that a strategy to replace or repair a non-ready system should take into account those systems that interface with other systems, both within and outside the organization.

In making your systems Y2K compliant, you can also expect a little help from Uncle Sam in the form of tax deductions. For example:

1. Convert your software. The cost of the software developed or purchased to convert existing to make them year 2000 compliant can be currently deducted or amortized over a useful life of five years or less.

2. Buy new software to replace old, dated software. The costs of buying stand-alone software can be amortized over 36 months using the straight-line method, beginning the month it is placed in service.

3. Lease software. The costs of leasing software to update your computer system are deductible over the period of the lease.

Keep in mind that the right solution for your business depends on your business goals and the way in which you plan to use technology to meet those goals. A CPA or another technology consultant can help you make the most informed decision regarding Y2K issues and your business.

Home schoolers now eligible for Army education benefits

Young men and women who gain their high school diploma through home schooling can now receive the same Army benefits as those students who graduate from a traditional high school.

This is an exceptional opportunity for home schooled students. Home schooled students can now participate in the full range of Army benefits if they decide to enlist.

With the popularity of home schooling increasing over the years, it became necessary to offer equal enlistment opportunities to those gaining their high school diploma at home.

Home schooled students now, in addition to the Montgomery GI Bill, receive full Army College Fund benefits if qualified. The Army College Fund provides up to $40,000 for college for those who elect to participate.

Home schooled young men and women can also qualify for the Army's loan repayment program, which gives students up to $65,000 to repay federally insured student loans.

Another new benefit for the home schooled student is the enlistment bonus of up to $12,000 for enlistment in certain military occupational specialties.

Previously, home schooled students did not qualify for the Army College Fund, Loan Repayment Program or for enlistment bonuses.

For further information on Army opportunities, contact your local Army recruiter, or call 1-800-USA-ARMY, or you can visit the recruiting web site at www.goarmy.com.

Local officials foresee little money from Proposal C

by Amy Lee
Capital News Service

Area officials are taking a wait-and-see attitude about whether any of the $675 million Michigan voters approved for environmental clean-up will funnel into Crawford County.

"I'm waiting for the details," said Grayling City Manager Jerry Morford. "I'm skeptical about the value of this for small areas."

The Clean Michigan proposal allows the state to sell $675 million worth of bonds to clean up former industrial sites, curb fertilizer runoff, improve drinking water, upgrade park facilities and clean up contaminated river sediment. The measure passed easily with more than 60 percent voter support November 3.

"We're just delighted. This made absolute sense for the state," said Donald Stypula, the environmental manager of the Michigan Municipal League.

But not everyone is convinced the measure will benefit all Michigan residents.

"When you look at the Detroit area with their huge factories, I'm afraid money will flow in that direction and we won't see a great deal of it," said Rep. Allen Lowe, R-Grayling.

About $335 million is slated specifically to clean up "brownfields," abandoned polluted industrial sites.

The proposal also allocates $90 million for clean drinking water programs, $50 million to combat "non-point-source" pollution that comes from more than one location, $50 million for waterfront development and $50 million for state park clean-up. The rest will go toward river clean-up, pollution prevention and lead abatement.

Only a few areas in Crawford County may be contaminated and qualify for state aid, said Pat Merrill, the county's Environmental Monitor.

Lack of heavy industry in the area keeps the environment relatively clean. "A few sites are being looked at, but they're very small," Merrill said. "We don't have that big of a problem up here."

Local government must apply for the grants. The Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will then organize a list of possible projects, Stypula said. The DEQ deals with projects like brownfield redevelopment, while the DNR deals more with cleaning up waterways.

A few former gas station sites may be polluted, Lowe said, but Morford doubts Crawford County's minor problems will make any impression on the DEQ.

"I just don't think our problems are unique enough to attract attention. That hurts our chances for getting grants from this fund," Morford said.

The two state parks on Higgins Lake, however, might be eligible for some maintenance funds, he said.

said.

A section of Lake Superior's shoreline near downtown Marquette will likely be the first project to get underway, said the municipal league's Stypula. That was the Upper Peninsula's main iron ore shipping point during the 1800's.

"There's quite a bit of contamination up there," Stypula said.

For other projects, county and city officials must alert the DEQ and DNR to potential problem spots, he said.

"It all depends on how aggressive local governments are in obtaining the money," Stypula said.

But for Morford, cutting through the red tape and getting results from the state sometimes poses more of a problem than a solution.

"Sometimes I kill more trees by doing the paperwork for a grant than if I'd gone out there and dumped (toxins) on the ground," he said.

Get rid of pesticides at new Clean Sweep Site

Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA) Director Dan Wyant announced that the state's newest Clean Sweep site for collection of unwanted pesticides was dedicated and opened to the public on Monday, November 9th.

It is only state-funded pesticide disposal site located in the northern Lower Peninsula.

"A collection site is needed in the Traverse City area. In fact, before it even opens next week we have a waiting list of people who wish to get rid of their pesticides in an environmentally-safe manner," Wyant said.

"I am pleased to see the site opened just as Northwest Michigan residents are doing their last bit of fall clean-up chores around the farm, home and garden."

The Clean Sweep Program in Traverse City is a cooperative effort between the Grand Traverse County Solid Waste Office, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Michigan Department of Agriculture's Groundwater Stewardship Program.

Two dozen pesticide users from six counties in Northern Michigan expressed their intention to use the site the first afternoon.

The Grand Traverse Clean Sweep building was constructed with a $31,500 grant from the EPA. The Michigan Department of Agriculture has committed to pay pesticide disposal costs for the next 10 years.

Grand Traverse County Solid Waste personnel will staff and maintain the site.

Michigan residents are invited to dispose of unused and unwanted pesticides by taking them to the Clean Sweep site, where they will be collected, packaged for shipping to an appropriate disposal site. There is no charge for consumers to use the Clean Sweep site.

Pesticides dealers and individuals who sell or apply pesticides for hire may, at the Clean Sweep manager's discretion, dispose of unwanted or unused pesticides at the site for a small fee. The fee is typically about 20 percent of the normal cost of pesticide waste disposal because of economies of scale and competitive bidding for disposal services.

Operation Clean Sweep was established by MDA in 1994 to provide Michigan residents with a free, environmentally-safe and convenient way to dispose of pesticides.

At first, the program organized collection drives around the state when residents could bring in materials at scheduled times. To increase program effectiveness, MDA now supports nine permanent Clean Sweep sites around the state, including the Grand Traverse County site.

In 1997, the program collected 50,000 pounds of unwanted or unused pesticides statewide, keeping them out of landfills and other situations where groundwater contamination might occur.

Two additional sites are scheduled for completion during 1999.

For more information or to arrange a disposal time at the Grand Traverse County Solid Waste Office at (616)-922-4576. The site is located behind the Department of Public Works Garage at 361 Welch Court, in Traverse City.

The Michigan Groundwater Stewardship Program is a cooperative effort between Michigan Department of Agriculture, MSU Extension and the Natural Resources Conservation Service, as well as Michigan Farm Bureau, Michigan AgriBusiness Association and the Michigan Association of Conservation Districts.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture, which serves the state's second-largest industry, is the official state agency charged with serving, promoting and protecting the food, agriculture and agricultural economic interests of the people of the State of Michigan.

County board gives full support to proposed mall

by Cheryll Rulley
Staff Writer

The Crawford County Board of Commissioners agreed at their most recent regular meeting to send a letter of support to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) regarding the sale or exchange of State land for a proposed mall development in Beaver Creek Township.

In a letter to the DNR dated November 10, the Board members expressed their pleasure in hearing the request from developers Jerry DeWitt and Ron Fraser, and assured the DNR's Exchange and Special Services Unit of its Real Estate Division, that the Commissioners will accept the responsibility that comes with growth in the community, "without reservation."

The proposed mall site would involve 190 acres located between Four and Five Mile Roads, off of Old 27.

The issue of the land sale or exchange will be addressed at a public hearing on December 1, in Lansing.

Local groups plan for recreational trails

Imagine getting on your bicycle or cross-country skis a few blocks from your home, regardless of where you live in Crawford County, and travelling to the Hartwick Pines, Lake Margrethe, or Hanson Hills. Imagine riding or hiking through the forests for two miles, ten miles, or even all day on a recreational outing.

Imagine your children riding their bicycles safely to their baseball or soccer games at the fairgrounds, or walking safely, away from traffic, to the high school.

Well, outdoor enthusiasts take note. A special county-wide system of recreational trails designed especially for you may be just around the recreational bend. It will become reality if a group of local citizens have their way.

A sub-committee of the Crawford County Parks and Recreation Committee has been formed to identify, design and implement a series of multi-use pathways in the county.

Some trails will lead to specific destinations, others will be looped to lead back to the beginning. Some will follow existing roads, others will wind through the forests. Some will be for seasonal motorized recreational vehicles, others will be limited to non-motorized traffic.

Wayne Koppa, chairman of the chamber's transportation committee, has been appointed to lead the trails effort. Members of the committee come from both governmental and private interests.

"As more and more people look for healthy ways to spend time outdoors, the need for a system of multi-use trails throughout the county becomes apparent," said Koppa. "The goal of this committee is to turn that need into a reality."

Koppa said many other northern Michigan communities have developed pathway systems which have become vital links to both recreation and transportation for local residents and tourists.

The trails committee, working with other local citizens and citizen groups, has begun the process of developing a comprehensive pathways master plan which will identify the necessary vision, strategies, leadership, and funding to create a trail system in Crawford County.

"We're going to be looking at every aspect of developing trails," Koppa said. "User safety and the safety and privacy of adjoining properties will be two of our main concerns."

He said the funding for community trail systems has usually come from recreational grants. "A lot of recreational money is available right now. I've been told by people who have successfully gone through this process that if the planning has been done properly, and if the community is supportive, then money can be found. But, it's imperative that we get the whole community involved."

As a county-sponsored effort, prior to any trails being developed, public hearings must be held to hear citizen input. Those hearings are expected to take place sometime next year.

Koppa said once the local trails are developed, the logical next step would be to link them with trails in surrounding counties.

The local trail effort is a direct result of national and state legislation in the late 80's and early 90's aimed at redefining and combining local recreation and transportation needs.

Out of this legislation the Rails-to-Trails Conservancy of Michigan and many urban greenway movements began.

Currently, not including the statewide snowmobile system, there are 380 miles of multi-use trails open to the Michigan public. Another 365 miles of trails are under construction, and an equal number of trail miles have been proposed.

Among those trails currently open or under construction is the 83-mile Top Of Michigan Trail which links Charlevoix, Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Alanson, Mackinaw City, Cheboygan, Onaway and Hawks. A side trail from Cheboygan to Gaylord is currently being developed.

Another trail links Cadillac to Grand Rapids and is intersected at Reed City by a trail linking Baldwin to Midland.

According to Koppa, Crawford County could easily add another 100 miles of trails to the state network. He is urging anyone interested in joining the trail effort to contact him through the Chamber of Commerce, or to contact any of the following committee members: David Frederick, Crawford County Transportation Authority; Susan Thiel, MDNR Forest Management Division; Lynnette Corlew, Crawford County; Cindy Olson, Hanson Hills Recreation Authority; Kent Reynolds, Crawford-AuSable Schools; Terry Wright, Grayling Township; Lynn McConnell, Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce; or, Dick Fultz, the Bicycle Shop.

The next meeting of the Trails Committee will be on Monday, November 30, at 8 a.m. in the meeting room of the Crawford County Transportation Authority.

OBITUARIES

William H. Lenkowski

William H. Lenkowski, age 81, went to be with His Lord passing in his sleep November 10, 1998. Bill lived a colorful and productive life and enjoyed Michigan outdoor activities. He was born in Ironwood, moving to Detroit, where he began his work history at the age of 13 through his involvement in the C.C.C. Camp and the US Navy in WWII. He became an excellent chef and established two businesses, The Coffee Shop in St. Ignace and The Cottage Inn Resort, here in Grayling. His work history in Toledo was at the Dana Corp., until his retirement in 1982. He became an avid vegetable gardener and he spent his winters in N. Palm Beach, FL until he was diagnosed with a chronic illness, which he never fully recovered. He will be lovingly remembered for his wonderful recipes, wit, generosity, and persevering nature.

Bill is survived by his wife of 61 years, Frances B. Lenkowski; daughter and son-in-law, Charlene and Terry Wickerling of Grand Rapids; son and daughter-in-law Bill and Sherie Lenkowski of Hoffman Estates, IL; daughter and son-in-law, Bonita and Richard Reilly of Toledo; 12 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren. He was greeted by his entire family and 2 granddaughters, who preceded him in transition into eternal life.

Services were held at Blanchard Bros. Funeral Home. Memorials can be offered to the Alzheimer's Association.

Russell G. Johns

Russell G. Johns, age 74, died at Mercy Hospital, November 16, 1998.

Russell lived in the Grayling area for the past nine years. Originally from Sault Ste Marie, Russell worked for Bundy Tubing for 46 years out of Warren. As he spent time with his large family, he still managed to find time working at Grayling Auto Repair as a Customer Service Representative.

He is survived by his wife, Audrey Johns, of Houghton Lake; son and daughter-in-law, Russell and Linda Johns of Fraser; son and daughter-in-law, Wayne and Tammy Johns of Grayling; daughter and son-in-law, Beverly and Elmer Horton of Nauvoo, IL; daughter and son-in-law Terry and Steven Lucas of Eastpointe; 9 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

Mr. Johns was preceded in death by his parents and grandson, Gerald Patrick Hart and granddaughter, Katy Lynn Lucas. Funeral services to be held, Friday, November 20, 1998 at the Sorenson Funeral Home at 1 p.m., Reverend Robert Wetzel officiating clergyman. Military rites by American Legion Post 106 and Michigan National Guard.

Family suggest memorials to Crawford County Animal Shelter or American Heart Association.

Russell L. "Bid" Yacks

Russell L. "Bid" Yacks, age 81, passed away at Mercy Hospital of Grayling, November 12, 1998.

"Bid" was born in River Rouge, and worked as a conductor with Michigan Central Railroad, New York Central and Penn Central out of Bay City. Russell lived in the Grayling area for the past 25 years. During which he kept busy as an avid golfer.

Russell is survived by his wife, Ethel L. (Lewis) Yacks, son and daughter-in-law, Leo and Martha Yacks of Essexville; son and daughter-in-law, Eugene and Kathy Yacks of Pinconning; daughter and son-in-law, Ann and Larry Haight of Grayling; 6 grandchildren, Dawn, Mary, Rob, Bill, Royal and Jake; 5 great grandchildren, Kellie, Sammy, Caroline, Russell and Annie, and his beloved pet "Tosha".

No services are planned. Family suggests memorials to Crawford County Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Special thought for the week: The three biggest reasons for going to a warmer climate: December, January and February.

How are you betting? Will LaNina be our undoing or will Mother Nature be her whimsical self and keep us on pins and needles? Tune in again tomorrow and see what happens!

Please join us for our annual Thanksgiving dinner on Tuesday, November 24th. We will be serving in two different time periods, 12 noon and 5. Please make reservations and specify which time you want to come. A donation of $2.00 for seniors and a charge of $3.50 for those under 60. Tina Kennedy will play for listening and dancing in between the dinners, so make your reservations early for this festive affair. Call 348-7123.

Your week ahead: 18th - The Out to Lunch gang leaves at 11:30 for Granny's Kitchen in Vanderbil and shopping in Gaylord after, and COA Board meeting at 5:30. 19th - Lucky 7 Casino trip. 20th - SHARE pickup 1:30 to 3pm at the Latter Day Saint's Church. 22nd - Sunday potluck at 2pm, bring a dish to pass and your appetite. 23rd - Hangman at 5:30. 24th - Thanksgiving dinner at noon and five. Please be reminded that the Center will be closed on Thanksgiving and on Friday as well. Please accept our warmest wishes for a lovely holiday.

Just a reminder that our congregate meals are served at noon and five, Monday thru Thursday and lunch only on Friday. We have a fruit and vegetable salad bar on Tuesdays and soup is served on Monday and Wednesday. Please try to make a reservation, if you can, by calling 348-7123 or 888-355-4500.

18th - Spaghetti w/ meat sauce/Pot Roast

Q: I would like to decorate the house for the holiday but now I have a curious toddler. What safety precautions should I know?

Signed: Worried Mom

A: The holidays should be a fun time for little children. Unfortunately for some, holiday activities can be a source of accidents and illness.

Here are a few precautions to keep in mind so that good times are had by all. They are suggested by the Children's Hospital of Michigan Trauma Center.

Holiday foods and beverages: Prepare and store the turkey to prevent food borne illnesses. Alcoholic beverages are a danger to children - keep them out of children's reach. Be especially careful of premixed beverages that are creamy and fruit flavored. Children can mistake these for pop, milk or fruit drinks and consume enough to cause dangerously low blood sugar, stupor or coma.

Holiday decorations: Christmas tree light bubbling fluid fortunately comes in small amounts. If the bulb is broken and the contents ingested it is unlikely that a child would consume a toxic quantity. However, a poison control center or doctor should be contacted since central nervous system depression could result.

Fireplace colors: These are

4-H offers opportunity for teens to see government in action

How will government curb juvenile crime? What options does Michigan government offer victims of domestic violence? What challenges does school funding and operations offer government? How is Michigan handling environmental concerns?

These are just a few of the questions teens can explore through personal, hands-on involvement with legislators and government professionals at the 1999 4-H Capitol Experience March 21-24 in Lansing.

"Michigan government in Action" is the theme for the 1999 Capitol Experience, a 4-H program in citizenship, leadership and public policy. Teen and adult participants from all over Michigan participate in state and local government decision-making at the State Capitol complex.

During the 3 1/2 days of the event, participants meet with legislators, state agency personnel, lobbyists, community organization representatives, legislative aides and newspaper reporters to discuss and actively participate in the process by which state government handles key issues that affect Michigan residents.

Teen participants will be expected to undertake a project before the event and apply what they learn to a citizenship activity in their county after they return.

4-H Capitol Experience is open to 4-H members who are at least high school freshmen. The cost for participants is $140, which covers three nights lodging at the Ramada Inn of East Lansing, Sunday dinner, all meals Monday and Tuesday, breakfast and lunch on Wednesday, snacks and event materials.

Teens and adults interested in joining the 1999 4-H Capitol Experience delegation can pick up an application package at the Crawford County 4-H, MSU Extension office in the basement of the courthouse, or by calling 344-3264.

Completed application and a $70 registration fee must be returned to the County MSU Extension Office by January 29, 1999. Registration fees are fully refundable until 5 p.m., March 12, 1999.

Local man canoes to the Arctic Circle

Norm Miller, son of Harry and Betty Miller of Grayling and 1981 graduate of Grayling High School, recently completed a two thousand mile solo canoe trip in the Canadian provinces of Alberta and Northwest Territories.

Miller began his journey June 27 on the Athabasca River at Fort McMurray, Alberta, Canada and 47 days later, landed at Tuktoyaktuk, on the Beaufort Sea, several hundred miles above the Arctic Circle.

He traveled on the Athabasca River to Lake Athabasca. Across the lake to the Slave River, up the Slave to the Great Slave Lake, then across the Great Slave Lake to the MacKenzie River, following it north to the Beaufort Sea.

The paddler chose this route not because of its technical difficulty, but more for its historical significance and distance challenge.

Miller decided to retrace the route of a Scottish fur trader, Alexander MacKenzie, who led an expedition of men north in 1789.

MacKenzie hoped to find a water route to the Pacific Ocean, 11 years prior to the famed Lewis and Clark expedition.

Finding the river taking them continually north, and not to the Pacific as he had hoped, MacKenzie thought himself a failure and therefore named the river, "River of Disappointment".

MacKenzie kept a journal of the expedition, which was later published. When he returned to Scotland years later, he was knighted Sir Alexander MacKenzie, and the River of Disappointment was renamed, MacKenzie, in honor of his name.

Miller spent over a year and a half preparing for this trip. He read many articles and researched over fifty topographical maps of the area to help chart his course. He spent many months dehydrating his food supply as he wanted to be completely self-sufficient for the long journey.

He traveled in a single man kevlar canoe that was custom built for him by Michigan's own legendary canoeist, Verlin Krueger. Miller knew he would need a lightweight canoe, one that was rugged enough to stand the test of a long trip, sturdy enough to hold all of his gear and supplies for the duration and light enough to carry if a portage was necessary. The kevlar canoe stood up to every challenge.

Through his research, Miller found and read a copy of MacKenzie's journal. He was surprised to encounter many of the same sights MacKenzie wrote about some two hundred years earlier.

One sight in particular, which can still be viewed today, was an area near Fort Norman, MacKenzie referred to as the smoking hills. The smoking hills are actually an exposed coal vein that has been burning for centuries.

The MacKenzie River is very wide, second only to the Mississippi in North America. Huge barges carry goods up and down the river to remote towns and villages, as there are no roads for transportation above the Arctic Circle. Miller had an opportunity to tour one of the barges that was carrying two modular homes to a remote area.

While on the MacKenzie, Miller stayed close to shore to avoid sudden storms, high winds, and large waves.

He paddled his canoe many long hours in adverse conditions. Smoke from nearby forest fires filled the air for several days. At one point the smoke was so thick that he lost sight of the shoreline and had to use his compass to track his course.

Miller also spent over seven hours portaging around the hazardous, "Rapids of the Drowned" on the Slave River, and was delayed several days on land from crossing the Great Slave Lake, while storms that resembled those of Lake Superior raged with high winds and ten foot waves. Swarms of biting flies and mosquitoes were also a constant nuisance on many parts of the rivers.

JUST A MAN AND HIS CANOE -- Norm Miller paddled 2000 miles through Canada and into the Arctic Circle.

Although there were strenuous times, Miller said there were even more times of great enjoyment. With the MacKenzie Mountains off in the distance, and bald eagles soaring overhead, this just added to the beauty of the wilderness. Occasionally he would spot a black bear fishing for a meal, or a timber wolf making its way along the shore.

It was like stepping back in time when he reached Kittigazuit, an abandoned Eskimo village. According to Miller, in the previous town of Inuvik, he was told by a local villager about this abandoned town and an old cemetery that might be of some interest.

Following the man's direction to the top of a hill outside of town, Miller found an eerie sight.

North of the Arctic Circle the ground is frozen year around, therefore graves are unable to be dug. Bodies were placed on top of the ground and covered with large logs. Over time the wind and harsh weather rotted the logs exposing the moss covered skeletal remains of many.

One day while on the river, Miller met the Noel family. They were kayaking from their hometown in Yellowknife, the capital of the Northwest Territories, to Tuktoyaktuk on the MacKenzie. He traveled and camped with the Noels for several days.

At the end of their trip, they invited Miller to fly with them to Yellowknife for a visit at their home and a tour of their city. He gladly accepted their invitation.

It had been a long but exciting trip. Miller recalled the great feeling he had as he canoed out into the salt water of the Beaufort Sea.

He had reached the old whaling village of Tuktoyaktuk, finishing the long journey he had planned for so many months.

He said a good feeling of relief and accomplishment ran through him. Although thought of as the "River of Disappointment" by Alexander MacKenzie, Miller said he found it to be a magnificent journey on a spectacular river.

As he prepared to leave the area, he made arrangements for his canoe to be sent by barge to Hay River, and then by truck to Calgary, to be picked up later in September.

He then boarded a small plane with the Noel family, flew to Yellowknife for a short visit and then back home to Utah.

Miller's love for the outdoors started as a youth, while fishing the banks of the beautiful, AuSable River near his home in Grayling, and continued on a grander scale as he worked in Yellowstone National Park, and Park City Ski Resort.

Miller also enjoys, skiing, mountain climbing, hiking, photography as well as canoeing. He once spent an entire summer in Alaska helping with the clean-up of the Exxon Valdez oil spill.

A 1985 graduate of Lake Superior State College, Miller currently lives in Salt Lake City, where he is the owner-operator of Miller Window Cleaning Company.

Varsity Girls Basketball defeats Blue Devils

by Caleb Casey
Staff Writer

Grayling High School's Varsity Girls Basketball Team maintained a lead over the Gaylord Blue Devils for the entire game on Thursday, November 12, to earn a 62-45 victory.

The Vikings started out strong, amassing a 12 point first period lead. Gaylord had a noticeable height advantage, but the Grayling team was able to utilize its quickness, hustle and solid perimeter shooting to build a lead.

The Vikings hit four triples in the first period, and a total of seven in the game.

Carrie Cadeau started the three-point assault, giving Grayling an early 4-0 lead on a shot from downtown. Grayling's first point came on a free throw by sophomore Kristy Hulbert, who set up a scoring opportunity with a steal at mid-court.

Mary Dobry's first three-pointer of the game extended Grayling's lead to 7-0. She hit four triples throughout the course of the game.

The Blue Devils answered with a three, and Carrie Cadeau countered with her second three-point basket of the game, which put Grayling back up by seven, 10-3.

Cadeau then hit a shot inside on a long pass from Dobry. Mika

Sumner scored two points after setting a nice pick at the perimeter and rolling inside to get the pass from Dobry.

Dobry then hit another triple to give Grayling a 17-3 lead.

The Vikings led 19-7 after the first period.

Sumner started out the second quarter Viking scoring with a pair of free throws. Dobry then dumped in her third triple of the game to put the score at 24-9 in Grayling's favor.

Grayling's offense started to cool off and the Blue Devils abandoned the ineffective outside-shooting that plagued them in the first period in favor of high percentage shots inside. The Gaylord team used its size advantage to get shots inside and rebounds on misses for second and third scoring opportunities.

By halftime Gaylord had cut the Grayling lead from as many as 16 down to seven, 31-24.

The Blue Devils got a couple quick drives to the basket for scores in the beginning of the third quarter. Gaylord converted a pair of free throws to pull within three, 33-30.

Hulbert hit a pair from the charity stripe to put Grayling up five, 35-30.

Mika Sumner scored on a pass

PARENTS NIGHT -- Thursday's game against Gaylord was preceded by Parents Night. The members of the GHS Freshmen, JV and Varsity girls basketball teams took center court with their parents, who each received a flower. from Melanie Paxton, who made a good play to keep the ball from going out of bounds.

Cadeau then hit her second three-pointer of the contest to give Grayling an eight point lead.

The Blue Devils continued to use their height advantage to get rebounds and go back up for high percentage inside shots, cutting the Grayling lead to two going into the final quarter, 40-38.

Sumner started the fourth quarter scoring with a basket inside, putting Grayling back up by four.

After Gaylord put in a quick basket to come within two, Mandy Trudgeon scored two important buckets on drives to the hoop to put Grayling up 46-40.

The team's defense held up fairly well, and Grayling's inside game helped maintain the lead during a cold spell in perimeter shooting.

After several misses from outside the three-point line Dobry got back on track and nailed her fourth triple of the game, which put the Viking lead at 11, 56-45.

Cadeau connected on three free throws down the stretch, and Grayling's offense used up the last couple minutes with controlled passing.

Paxton hit a shot from under the basket at the buzzer to seal the score at 62-45.

The varsity girls start District Tournament play this week.

JV Vikings beat Devils 50-20

by Caleb Casey
Staff Writer

The GHS Junior Varsity Girls Basketball Team beat the visiting Gaylord Blue Devils by 30 points on Thursday, November 12.

Gaylord struggled from the floor in the first quarter, scoring only five points. The Vikings created turnovers with steals and solid defensive pressure.

Grayling jumped out to an 11-4 lead in the first period on a three-pointer by Emily Fox. Fox hit a jumper as the period wound down to put Grayling ahead 13-5.

The Blue Devils made up some ground in the second period as Grayling's shooting went cold. The team's only three points of the quarter came on a shot from three-point land by Arica Wolcott.

The Viking defense managed to keep a lead, frustrating the Gaylord offense with blocked shots and deflections.

The Blue Devils continued to have problems putting the ball in the basket, despite decent rebounding underneath, which led to multiple shot opportunities in the key. Three of Gaylord's seven points in the period came on free throws.

Grayling led by four at halftime,

16-12.

The Vikings started the third quarter with a 10-point scoring run, which included a three-pointer by Danielle Niederer.

After Gaylord hit its only basket of the period Fox connected on two more three-point buckets.

With the last seconds of the third quarter ticking away Lori Hinkle grabbed a rebound and went back up for two points, giving Grayling a 20 point lead going into the fourth, 34-14.

The Vikings continued to extend their lead in the final period.

Hinkle came up with a steal under the basket, which she put in for a quick two points. Gina Thompson scored on a shot inside after a nice pass from Wolcott to put Grayling up 40-18.

Wolcott scored a three-point play after she was fouled on a jumper and nailed the free throw. She later scored a shot from downtown to give the Vikings a 46-10 lead.

Jayne Potter and Hinkle finished the Viking scoring with a pair of two-point buckets down low. The Vikings won 50-20.

Grayling ended up outscoring the Blue Devils 34-8 in the second half of the game.

GMS 8th graders move to 11-0

by Caleb Casey
Staff Writer

The Grayling Middle School 8th Grade Girls Basketball "Green" Team continued its unbeaten streak with a pair of wins at the recent Houghton Lake Tournament.

"Six members of the team -- Emily Henion, Lori Ellis, Danielle Beckwith, Tracy Parkinson, Kim Mitchell and Andrea Dunckley have won 23 straight games over the last two years," said Coach Mertes. "Now Megan Cox, Kate Nickert, Andi Holzbauer, Jessica Green and Britni Baker have started their own winning streak with 11 games."

The Vikings dominated Kalkaska in their first game of the Houghton Lake Tournament, winning by a final score of 37-10.

Grayling then downed the Roscommon Bucks in a close game, 31-28.

"I believe several members of this team will be playing JV Basketball next year, and the others will make an outstanding 9th grade team," said Coach Mertes.

Mertes also said that the parents of the players have provided a great deal of "support and cooperation. It has been a fun year working with this team," he said.

'A Christmas Carol' coming to Interlochen

Perennial touring favorite "A Christmas Carol" always puts audiences in the holiday spirit and is a tradition of the Interlochen Arts Festival.

Tickets/Information: call the Interlochen Box Office at 616-276-6230. Box office hours are Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and Saturday, noon to 4 p.m.

A Christmas Carol will be performed by the Nebraska Theatre Caravan at 7 p.m. on two nights, Wednesday, December 2nd and Thursday, December 3rd, in the Corson Auditorium.

This production, performed at Interlochen for nearly 20 years, has proved to be a popular tradition.

Charles Dickens wrote the oft-told tale about the stingy, hateful Ebenezer Scrooge and his fateful visit by three ghosts more than 150 years ago. The quaint shops, gaslit streets, carolers create a Victorian Christmas card come to life.

There are still good seats available for this show. Tickets are $25 for adults and $10 for students 18 and under.

The Interlochen Arts Academy Jazz and Percussion Ensembles will perform at 8 p.m., Saturday, December 5th in the Michael P. Dendrinos Chapel. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for seniors and students 18 and under.

Interlochen Center for the Arts is home to Interlochen Arts

Academy, America's premier fine arts boarding school; Interlochen Arts Camp, the world's oldest and best-known summer arts program; Interlochen Arts Festival, the year-round presentation of over 750 performances and exhibitions, and Interlochen Public Radio, a national leader in per capita listener support among public radio stations. The center is situated on a 1,200 acre campus 16 miles southwest of Traverse City in Northern lower Michigan.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL -- Ebenezer Scrooge is visited by the ghost of Christmas future.

Kirtland to host poet for final Controlled Burn reading

Kirtland Community College's Controlled Burn Reading Series is proud to announce the final event of its Fall 1998 series with a performance by Michigan poet Mary Ann Samyn on Wednesday, December 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Continuing Education Center on College Drive.

The event will be preceded by a question-and-answer with the author at 4:00 in Room 5 of the Academic Building. Both events are free and open to the public; a reception and book-signing will be held after the reading.

Samyn's first collection of poetry, Rooms by the Sea, established her reputation as a poet of vision and craft when it earned the Wick Prize in Poetry from Kent State University Press in 1994. It deals with the themes of childhood, of growing up in world that's both tender and heartbreakingly frightening.

These are poems that attempt to express the difficulties in comprehending a world complicated by illness, confusion, and silence. Later work explores the themes of childhood as well as what it means to be a woman, a daughter, a lover and an individual and how difficult it can be managing those roles.

Her work has also appeared in many of the nation's finest literary journals, including The Kenyon Review, Midwest Review and Denver Quarterly among numerous others.

"Mary Ann's poems are cherry bombs--they seem innocuous at first glance, small, quiet, unassuming, but there's an explosion inside--a resonance that haunts the reader afterward. I think she's one of the most challenging and formally innovative writers in America today."

From how her poems look on the page to what they say to how they say it, her poetry walks that tight-rope between the personal and the private, between confusion and over-clarification, between pain and pity, and they always walk toward redemption. I'm grateful for and excited by Mary Ann Samyn's work," said series coordinator Gerry LaFemina.

Samyn currently is a special lecturer of English at Oakland University.

All these events are free and open to the public, and all buildings are handicap accessible according to ADA regulations.

For more information, contact LaFemina at 517-275-5121 extension 376.

World-class entertainers on the Saturday series include: Shields & Yarnell on January 23, The Chenille Sisters on February 13, Traverse Symphony Orchestra on March 6, Nai-Ni Chen Dance Company on April 17, and The Coasters, Drifters & Platters on May 15.

Kirtland Center for the Performing Arts will also host a special show on March 14, 1999 at 3 p.m. (Note: show time is earlier than usual.) The Peking Acrobats will leave the audience spellbound with their family show of gymnasts, acrobats, cyclists and jugglers.

Performance times are at 8 p.m. for all series performances from December through May, except for the March 14 performance.

Series subscriptions represent a savings over single ticket prices.

Series subscribers are also enrolled in the Patron Plus program, receiving discounts on theatre tickets, and at restaurants, golf courses and businesses around the college.

Series subscriptions and single tickets are on sale at the Kirtland Ticket Office. Group discounts are available and buses are welcome at Kirtland.

For ticket information, additional series information, or if you would like to make a reservation, please contact the Kirtland Ticket Office at (517) 275-6777, fax orders to (517) 275-8210 or e-mail orders to sikarskc@kirtland.cc.mi.us.

FEATURES

HOROSCOPES

For The Week Of November 29-December 5

ARIES

March 21-April 20

Your tendency to drive more than the posted speed limit could get you into hot water this week. Slow down. Take your time getting from Point A to Point B. Be patient with a new coworker who is having problems becoming acclimated to the new environment.

TAURUS

April 21-May 21

Don't rely on others too much this week. Instead, do things yourself so they get done, and get done correctly. Your partner has some very definite ideas on home improvement projects you're starting. Speak your mind... your ideas could be better in the long run.

GEMINI

May 22-June 21

If you need to borrow money, don't ask your friends. A family member would be a better source that won't strain your relationship. If you've been neglecting a long-distance relationship, now is the time to renew it. Maybe just a phone call will do the trick.

CANCER

June 22-July 22

Don't let money problems drive you to arguing with someone you really care about. You shouldn't let money ruin a good relationship, and don't use it as an excuse to end a bad one. Someone at work is playing word games. Watch your back!

LEO

July 23-August 22

This is a great time for training to help in your career. Be open to any suggestions in that area from your supervisor. Check out a local college's course selection. Do not skip a meeting. It could turn out to be important to completing a long-overdue project.

VIRGO

August 24-September 22

A wide range of community organizations could use your help now. Pick one or two and donate some time and talents to them. Your money...
Helping others to straighten out... Look for pointers from an unlikely source that could help you close a deal.

LIBRA

September 23-October 23

If you're looking for a new place to live, don't get too frustrated. This is not a good time of year to be involved in this task. Whatever you do, don't settle on a place out of desperation. Watch out! Someone may not be all they seem to be.

SCORPIO

October 24-November 22

Stay within your allotted budget when it comes to socializing, even if it does make you feel like you're out of your league. By mid-week, there could be a few changes at work, and that could end up meaning extra tasks for you.

SAGITTARIUS

November 23-December 21

Be prepared to skip lunch and not take any breaks this week. You're facing a tight deadline on a project, so expect to work extra to get it done. If something goes wrong, don't be too eager to place the blame. Correct the problem with a minimum of fuss.

CAPRICORN

December 22-January 20

It's time for a thorough cleaning at home. You might even find something you thought was lost and long gone. A social event could bring a new friend. Try not to be too inquisitive about his/her past. Otherwise, you could encounter an embarrassing situation.

AQUARIUS

January 21-February 18

Take time to go out to lunch with a group of coworkers or friends this week. It will be a well-deserved break. Try not to put your partner in a difficult position this week. You don't want to end up alienating him/her because of someone you thought was a friend.

PISCES

February 19-March 20

Watch your step at work this week and do not get embroiled in an argument. You don't always have to be right. Think about the implications of what you are saying before you say it. This is probably not the best week to do any heavy-duty housecleaning.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK DOUBLE DARE CHILI

2 cans (15.5 oz.) Chili Hot Beans, undrained

2 lbs. chuck of round steak, ground coarsely

1 onion, diced

2 T cooking oil

4 cloves garlic

1 T diced jalapeño pepper

2 cans (14.5 oz.) diced tomatoes

1.25 oz. chili seasoning

1 T cumin

salt & pepper to taste

1. In chili pot or skillet, heat oil and add meat, garlic onion. Sauté until brown, drain excess fat. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

2. Add chili beans and diced tomatoes. Heat through.*

3. Add chili seasoning, cumin, and jalapeño peppers. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 30-45 minutes.

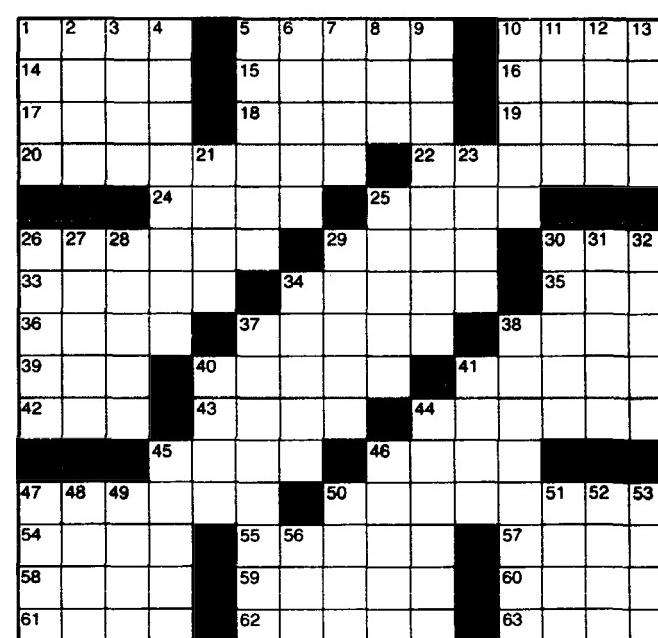

* For a thinner chili, add 1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce.

HOME NEEDED - These 2 female terrier mixes are about 6 months old and will not grow much larger. They are very friendly and gentle. To adopt any of the pets available, stop by or give the Animal Shelter of Crawford County a call at 348-4117.
